++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Further showers on Wednesday. Dry but chilly tonight, frost probable.

Today:
After a fine, sunny start, cloud will soon thicken with scattered showers developing again. Some will become heavy during the afternoon, especially in Lincolnshire. Perhaps drier and brighter in the west, though staying rather cloudy. Feeling warmer. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Any showers will die away during the evening, followed by largely clear skies. Turning chilly with grass frosts locally, mist and shallow fog patches by dawn. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry and bright start but increasingly cloudy on Thursday, with rain spreading east early afternoon. Rain becoming showery and heavier later, along with strengthening winds. Feeling rather cool. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Breezy and wet on Friday, with showers or longer spells of rain. Cloudy though brightening up on Saturday, with afternoon showers. Chilly start on Sunday, then further showers.
